THE SEAL IS BROKEN

Naval Lands at $105,000.

The sealed verdict returned by the jury Sunday in the Pearl Harbor case, was opened yesterday morning in Federal Court at 9 o'clock, in the presence of the Jury, attorneys and Judge Es-tee. It awarded to the Honolulu Plantation Company the sum of $105,000 for both the leasehold and the improve-ments upon the land. The improve-ments were placed at $15,208, and the lease was valued at $89,792.

The attorneys for both plaintiff and defendant took exceptions to the jury's findings, and gave notice of motion for new trial, but it is doubtful if both, or even the one party push the case to an appeal. On motion Judge Estee may, if so disposed, set aside the verdict and order a new trial, and this will be the first point argued.

The United States need, however, not delay the Pearl Harbor naval station for even one day because of the appeal now pending in the Bishop Estate case, sow pending in the Bishop Estate case, or the prospect of further action in the claim of the Honolulu Plantation Company. By simply paying into court the amount of damages awarded by the jury, possession of the lands can be taken immediately, even while the appeals are pending. This authority is given the United States by a Territorial law which provided that by paying the amount of damages fixed by a jury sondemned land may be taken possession of immediately, notwithstanding any further pending actions. ny further pending actions. ALLEGED HOLD-UP OF TRAM CAR

O TEPHEN BARRATT, a driver for the Hawaiian Tramways Company, reported late last night to the depot master at the Punahou stables that he had been robbed by a man whom he described as a seaman. At the time he was driving car 17 Queen street between Nuuanu and Fort streets. The hour was about 10:55. was made of the matter to the police until Barratt had reached the Puna-

He said the robber came on the front platform, held a revolver to his head while he taining change. The scene of the rob-bery was on Queen street between the Jury Fixes Value of open space next to Brewer's building. feature about the story told by Barratt is that he did not call out for assistance after the man had jumped from the platform and sought the cover of the darkness overhanging the waterfront. There are generally police officers on Queen street, as well as the special night watchmen who constantly make tours around the blocks, while there are a number of native boatmen who sleep on Brewer's wharf. The police department ascertained from the Tramways Company depot at Punahou that such a robbery had been reported at headquarters. Barratt states that at the time the man stepped upon the front platform there were no passengers in the car- He heard a man's voice asking him to give up the money he had in his coat pockets, and turned only to look down the muzzle of a revolver. Without waiting for Barratt to comply with his demand,the stranger is said to have used his left hand to extract the money packages from the driver's coat pockets, with which he left the car. Barratt says he continued on to Fort street, and after going a short distance up Fort street he told a night watchman that he had

The United States has still on its hands two small suits which have not been settled. The John II Estate owns a fee simple interest in twenty-three acres on Ford's Island for which there will probably be a contest, no compromise having been effected. There is still a leasehold interest of forty odd acres held by the Dowsett Estate in good-sized man standing beside me, dressed in a dark suit of clothes. He wore a thick beard and his hat was pulled down over his eyes. The only thing he said to me was: ""Give me all you have in your pock-
